Jindalee is situated on the southern side of the Brisbane River, 7½ miles from the City Hall. From the City, follow Coronation Drive or Milton Road to Moggill Road. Follow the signs along Moggill Road and turn left at the Jindalee/Fig Tree Pocket sign near the Salvation Army Boys' Home, Indooroopilly. Follow the express-way over the Centenary Bridge to Jindalee.

From Oxley, cross the rail bridge and follow the signs to Jindalee.

EDITORIAL

At the close of 1965 it is appropriate to review the progress of Jindalee over the past 12 months.

The name "Centenary Estates" assumed fresh significance during December when the 100th family moved in. As compared with the number of families here last Christmas, we are now densely populated and we look forward to seeing the rate of increase in the population over the past few months continue during the coming year.

Residents should reflect carefully on the benefits arising from the efforts of the various organizations. Excellent results have been achieved by our local groups and serve to emphasise the fact that no community can survive without a worthwhile community spirit. Everyone should resolve to support these organizations and assist in every way possible any projects designed to better our community.

We extend to our readers and their families our best wishes for Christmas and trust that the New Year will be a Prosperous and Happy one.

In conclusion, may we remind readers that any contribution to the Jindaleader will be welcomed. These can be submitted to committee members of any of the local organizations, or C. McCallum or B. McKensy.

JINDALEE PROGRESS ASSOCIATION

As Jindalee grows, and more furniture vans lumber around the Estate to herald the arrival of new faces, there's an inevitable rise too in the dog population. Most residents keep their dogs under proper control, and they're no worry to their neighbours. But too many are being allowed to roam the Estate, and they're a nuisance, an unnecessary nuisance, to people trying to establish gardens, children on bicycles or on foot, and people in cars. If you are a dog owner who thinks that everyone else on the Estate should share the pleasures of your canine friend, just remember this: however much you love your pet, he can be a pain in the neck to your neighbour if you don't keep him under control.

Jindalee's dog problem was discussed at the December meeting of the Progress Association. The Association is appealing to residents with a "Don't-fence-me -in" policy for their dogs to make their New Year resolution a
