JINDALEE

Parish - Oxley, County- Stanley.

(established - September 1962 – 1st Centenary suburb)

Originally named by Queensland Place Names Board on 21 November 1963.

Name and boundaries confirmed by Minister for Survey and Valuation, Urban and Regional Affairs on 11 August 1975.

Suburb name

Jindalee is an (imported) Aboriginal word from New South Wales, language and dialect unknown, supposed to indicate “bare hills” or “skin and bone”.

Jindalee is bordered by the Brisbane River to the north and west, by the Centenary Highway to the east and Mt Ommaney to the south.

History

Until 1959 the general area was in the hands of 170 individual land owners and most of it was farming land.

Located on the outskirts of Brisbane, Jindalee was an experiment in large scale development which succeeded. It was developed as Centenary Estates by L J Hooker - named ‘Centenary’ to coincide with Queensland’s Centenary year.
